Scott Camp, Portfolio Manager

Scott currently serves as Portfolio Manager and Analyst. He is a member of the firm's investment committee and holds the responsibility for making investment recommendations in the consumer discretionary and staples sectors.

Scott works closely with individuals and families to develop personalized investment strategies. These strategies are tailored to each client's unique needs, carefully considering their tax and estate situations, risk tolerance, and spending requirements. Each portfolio consists of individual stocks and bonds that meet the quality investment standards of the firm's investment committee.

Scott also leads the expansion and development of the institutional segment of Beese Fulmer; working with institutions and their respective representatives to communicate our investment process and philosophy. In addition to investment research, he spends his time collaborating with institutions, families, and individuals to provide customized solutions for each client's specific needs.

Scott lives in Shaker Heights, Ohio with his wife Meredith. He has two college age kids – Lily and Jack. In his free time, he enjoys attending local sporting events, playing golf, and spending time with his family in Florida and Canada.

Experience

Prior to joining Beese Fulmer, Scott spent over 15 years on a top-rated international growth equity team. The team was acquired by Federated Hermes from PNC Capital Advisors in 2019, and he worked out of the Cleveland offices for both firms. He was very instrumental in coordinating the smooth transition of PNC funds to Federated Hermes. While at Federated Hermes, Scott was a Senior Investment Analyst supporting three international focused mutual funds and a separate portfolio of US listed ADR's. Scott frequently traveled throughout Europe, Canada, the Middle East and Australia, meeting with senior management to better understand the long-term implications of their business plans and market due diligence. He also worked closely with product management and sales to understand the needs of institutional clients. He also spent over seven years handling the trading functions of those three funds. This required focused attention to understanding liquidity and exchange frameworks to provide efficient and effective execution in both the equity foreign exchange markets across the globe.

Scott also spent six years working for KeyBanc Capital Markets as a NASDAQ trader. While there he learned a great deal about trade execution and proprietary trading for the company. There he delivered steadfast processes with efficient and profitable execution for very large institutional order flow.

He began his career working on the exchange floor of the Chicago Board of Trade. He worked his way up from running orders in the trading pits, to becoming a market maker and proprietary trader in the Federal Funds and Treasury Note Futures trading markets.

Education

Case Western Reserve University, MBA.

Brown University, Bachelor of Arts.