

Robert Szeles, CFA

Robert joined Beese Fulmer in 2022 and currently serves as Portfolio Manager and Analyst. As a new member of the team, Bob brings nearly a decade's worth of experience in global markets and company analysis for mutual fund products. Bob is eager to leverage his current background to benefit Beese Fulmer's current and future clients.

Bob resides in Richfield, Ohio with his wife Lindsay and two children – Coleman and Blake. In his free time, he enjoys exploring the metro parks with his family, playing golf, and competing in triathlons.

Experience

Prior to joining Beese Fulmer, Bob spent nine years on a top-rated international equity team. The team was acquired by Federated Hermes from PNC Capital Advisors in 2019 and worked out of the Cleveland offices of both firms. While at Federated Hermes, Bob was a Senior Investment Analyst supporting three mutual funds with global equity exposures. Bob frequently traveled throughout Europe, meeting with senior management to better understand the long-term implications of current decision-making and perform due diligence. In addition, he attended conferences with forums from central bank leaders, geopolitical experts, and senior company management.

Bob worked with product management and sales to understand the needs of institutional clients. He supported the development of new product launches which required working with experts in fund accounting, legal, product, sales, and executives to bring new mutual funds to market. Assets under management for his team grew from $400 million in 2013 to $1.7 billion in 2021, due to new products, improved marketing tools, and a strong understanding of client needs.
